

JULY 2021

THE WORLD OF INTERIORS

GROW WITH THE FLOW

How an eco encampment took root along a remote Argentine river

INCLUDES THE WORLD OF EXTERIORS:
Coronation meadows, tulipmania and the prettiest potager outside Paris

inspiration

Some of the design effects in this issue, recreated by Grace McCloud

1

2

1 A mirrored sconce doesn't just give twice the light, it has twice the charm too, especially when it's as beautifully shaped as Gretchen Andersen's (page 136) – or indeed Vaughan's 'Montacute', £1,172. Ring 020 7349 4600, or visit vaughandesigns.com.

2 Envy doesn't even begin to cover it when it comes to Gretchen Andersen's green bedroom walls (page 143). But Francesca's Paints will, when it comes to finding a match for that matcha hue. Her 'C13-06 Krishna Leaf', left, or 'C23-07 Sensitized Ground' would do the job very nicely indeed. From £27.10 per litre of eco emulsion. Ring 020 7228 7694, or visit francescaspaint.co.uk.

3

3 We've gone from pillar to post looking for a column-framed looking-glass like that in the Kensington house (page 136) – all so you don't have to. Our favourite find? Overmantels' tall 'Regency Triptych', from £1,720. Ring 020 7223 8151, or visit overmantels.co.uk.

4

4 As Laura Orcoyen's brood has grown, so too has her jungle retreat. The same must be true of her sofa, now vast enough for three generations to snuggle on (page 56). In need of some flexible family-size furniture? Paola Navone's low-back L-shaped modular 'Vida' in white Belgian linen costs from $2,996 per unit. Ring Restoration Hardware on 001 209 834 1044, or visit rh.com.

5

6

5 Lacquered walls are a lavish touch in the Tino Zervudachi-decorated house (page 96). For a similar specialist finish, call in the pros: the team at Henry van der Vijver, geniuses at japanning, can do a bespoke powder room from £5,760. Visit hvaart.co.uk.

6 I spiral with my little eye something beginning with L. No? Turn to page 94, where you will spot Stephen Antonson's twisty 'Loie' lamp perched atop the desk in the New England drawing room. Liz O'Brien sells the design for $3,350. Ring 001 212 755 3800, or visit lizobrien.com.

7 Ronald van der Hilst knows that not every pot of gold lies at the end of a rainbow – he has one (for tea) on a dresser, with bits to match (page 82). Your luck's in! Richard Brendon's 'Reflect' range, from £45 for a sugar bowl, is near identical. Ring Wolf and Badger on 020 3695 0011, or visit wolfandbadger.com.

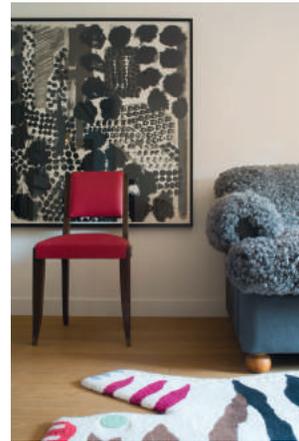

8 Flowers and foliage don't just beautify tables and sideboards – why not use them to spruce up a light fitting, like Ronald van der Hilst has done (page 83). How? With the help of Artisan Abode's flower chandelier, £44.95, for starters – pretty hung on its own or around a bulb. Ring 01626 834705, or visit artisanabode.co.uk.

9 A striped runner hurries down a corridor in Valerie Finnis's Northamptonshire home (page 127), its brown-and-red palette old-fashioned but not unfashionable – at least not to Wol's eyes. Nor yours? Then take a look at Woodard & Greenstein's slightly more contemporary 'Cheshire 564', which costs $22 per sq ft. Ring 001 212 988 2906, or visit woodardweave.com.

10 Magazine cuttings of flower photographs line a wall in the horticulturist's dower house (page 119), looking like a collage of seed packets. As does Louise Henderson's aptly named 'Vintage Seed Packets' textile design from Spoonflower. Made up into a cushion, it costs £38.50. Visit spoonflower.com.

11 Tord Dyrssen, though based in the Basque country, hasn't forgotten his Swedish roots, filling his coastal home with bits and pieces from the celebrated Stockholm design store Svenskt Tenn. Our pick has to be Per Oberg's iron coffee table with legs like ziggurats (page 146) – yours for £3,200 approx. Visit svensktenn.se.

12 'The curve is the line of the gods.' Antoni Gaudí's words might easily apply to the Malian mosque (page 104), its mounds and turrets not unlike the Spanish architect's. They're also reminiscent of Ila Cerámica's pottery. Shown: 'Experiential Void', $400. Visit ilaceramica.com ■